Description in the game This chaotic thing, the last flame, ignited by a demon prince, has the form of traces of the demon's claws. It is a fiery blade weapon, and a pyromantic flame. Skills: Spin SlashSpin to stoke fierce flames of chaos, and use the momentum to jump into a spinning strong attack, creating a short-lived lava pool. The contents of the show AvailabilityEdit, obtained by transposing the Soul of Prince demon with Ludlit Kurland at the price of 10,000 souls. The Demon Scar features a very flexible weapon that serves as both a curved sword and a Pyromancisma flame. Combining the light curved sword moveset of Scimitar with the power to throw pyromaniac, it boasts extremely low weight and is the only weapon in the game to deal with pure fire damage. Using a strong attack, whether one pass, two assists or no weapons, the player will throw a currently equipped Pyromansy. This gives the weapon more flexibility, since the owner is able to unleash the onslaught of quick slash attacks, and mix it with various Pyromaniac for quick and deadly combinations such as blasting an enemy with Black Flame after stunning them with an attack. Because it uses a light curved sword moveset, it is uniquely suited to own in an off-hand, as it will retain the ability to attack and throw pyromantion, leaving the main arm open to equip heavier weapons. However, this is due to the fact that they are unable to perform strong attacks, usually associated with light curved swords, limiting the movement of the Demon's scar to horizontal slashes. In addition, lower scaling means that pyromaniac cast with these weapons will generally be weaker than those cast from the standard Pyromania Flame, or even Pyromanzer, showing flames. Although these are indeed very flexible weapons, it comes at the expense of overall strength. Unlike other curved swords, scaling on this weapon dictates that it is only useful for Pyromanzer to build, since much of its damage output comes from leveling intelligence and faith, only with poor returns from the alignment of Dexterity. Also, his Buff spells will scale only with intelligence and faith. The craftsmanship of this weapon is a modified version of the normal Spina Slash of other light curved swords. Besides Pure fire damage, strong attack ending in vertical clap will leave the lava pool on impact just like the other Pyromaniac of Chaos.
